

Lingo – The Hands-On Magazine

The 24-page children's magazine is published four times a year with seasonal topics and contents. The simple language, engaging topics, interactive elements and attractive design encourage children to explore the magazine independently. Furthermore, teachers can also integrate the Lingo material in their language lessons. The current editions can be downloaded as a PDF or be read online as an e-book.

The Eduversum GmbH develops educational projects and teaching material for institutions and private publishers. Through experience and professional know-how, Universum nowadays is a leading provider of supplementary teaching material.

Auswärtiges Amt

The German Federal Foreign Office supports German as a Foreign Language worldwide, the cultural exchange and promotion of German art and culture abroad.

Under this objective Lingo is funded by the Federal Foreign Office of Germany.

The Goethe-Institut is the worldwide acting cultural institution of the Federal Republic of Germany and functions as the co-publisher of the Lingo media.

Early German with Lingo – playful & interactive

German is one of the world's most important languages. In the new EU Member States especially, the German language is regarded as key for personal and vocational development. As with all foreign languages, the early acquisition of language skills is crucial, which is where Lingo plays a role.

Lingo introduces the German language to children from 6 to 12 years old in a fun and interactive way.

The media package includes a website and a children's magazine that is published four times a year.

Lingo pitches its topics at a suitable language and content level. The topics

- are relevant to the everyday life and concerns of children from 6 to 12,
- deal with seasonal cultural aspects and seasonal natural phenomena,
- foster children's curiosity about learning German.

The Website

As the central media, the website has two sections – one addressing young learners and one addressing teachers, schools and language institutions.

Lingo – The Hands-on Website for Children

Through interactive, multi-media activities and games in six sections – playing, solving quizzes, listening and reading, knowing, do-it-yourself and the e-magazine – children will independently explore their way through the Lingo hands-on website.
